Battle Hymn of the Hendersons

(Tune: "Battle Hymn of the Republic")

Among the people who can boast of noble pedigree,
The Hendersons are famous and a grand old family;
We cherish our ancestors, kinsmen and posterity!
The clan goes marching on!

1326975

Chorus: Henderson's a grand old family!
Virile, worthy, brave and loyal!
"Sola virtus no-bi-li-tat!"
The clan goes marching on!

Alexander, Daniel, "Pat", were fathers of our clan;
Posterity of Peter and Benjamin never ran;
James and John were virile, David was a sturdy man.
The clan goes marching on!

Sir James was the lord chief justice and a worthy knight;
Alex' was a diplomat and preacher of the right;
John was a public servant; Thomas, not afraid to fight!
The clan goes marching on!

James Henderson was gov'nor of a grand old Southern state;
Among the names in Old Kentucky Henderson is great:
The "solitary horseman", though in danger, didn't wait.
The clan goes marching on!

In England, Wales and Scotland, and the Emerald Isle as well,
In U. S. A. and Canada, in city, plain and dell,
Where English tongue is spoken—that is where our kinsmen dwell.

The clan goes marching on!
The Hendersons are mighty, with a hundred thousand strong;
In seventy-six, four hundred kinsmen fought to right a wrong;
Twenty towns now bear our name. Sure, let us sing that song—
The clan goes marching on!

The Hendersons have courage any task or foe to face;
Our daughters all are lovely with their beauty, charm and grace;
The leaven of our family is a blessing to the race.
The clan goes marching on!

No matter what opposes or what enemies assail,
With Hendersons in worthy causes, justice should prevail.
Those who claim the blood of Henderson should never fail.
The clan goes marching on!

(A) INTRODUCTION

THE Henderson Family is among the forty-nine "best families" selected by the American Historical-Genealogical Society for whom the Society has published family histories during the past few years.

The Henderson Family has been prominent in the British Empire and in the United States, its members having played important roles in war and in peace. Family pride is a commendable trait and should be cultivated. All Hendersons have just cause to be proud of their family history and traditions.

In reference No. 3 and No. 14 we find the following regarding the origin and meaning of the name Henderson:

The surname of Henderson was developed from "Hendry," which is still a common provincialism for "Henry." In Wales, where is often found the intrusive "d," this was the ordinary form. The original meaning of Henderson was "son of Henry."

The name is old in Scotland, the family having lived there since the fifteenth century. The family seat is at Fordell, co. Fife, and "Henderson of Fordell" is a term of distinction, well known throughout the United Kingdom.

The border clan of Henderson are found as "Hendirsonne," "Henresoun," "Henryesson" and "Hendersonne" in documents of the 16th and 17th centuries.

The old Norse or Icelandic form of the name is "Endrioi"; the Anglo-Saxon in "Henthryth."

The data in this volume is gathered from reliable sources. We have selected what we consider the most important material. Many of the daughters, and sons for whom no issue was shown, have been omitted from the pedigrees. A missing symbol indicates that a name has been omitted. Those desiring further information are advised to consult the volumes mentioned in the list of References.

The compiler hopes that, in producing this volume, he is bringing to the Henderson Family information which will be of interest and value to them, and that he is rendering an important service to the public. He and his associates will be glad to give their co-operation to members of the family who are interested in having a complete genealogy of the family published.

Unless otherwise plainly shown, the persons in this volume whose names are accompanied by three figures are children of the immediately preceding persons bearing immediately preceding numbers. All persons in each group bearing the same letter as a part of their numbers are directly related. The generations of the descendants of those bearing numbers of three figures are represented as follows. However, some of our material is published as copied from various records without rearrangement according to this system.

(B) THE HENDERSON COAT OF ARMS

COAT of Arms is an emblem or a device which is displayed by titled persons, persons of royal blood, and their descendants. Coats of Arms were originally used for purposes of identification and recognition on the field of battle as well as in civil life.

It is claimed by some writers that Coats of Arms, in a crude form, were used by Noah's sons after the flood. There are records of other Coats of Arms, in one crude form or another, at different periods of ancient history. Heraldry, however, as we know it today, did not become of much importance until soon after the invasion of England by William the Conqueror, A. D. 1066. Heraldry became of general interest at about the time of the Crusades.

The Henderson Coat of Arms shown in the front of this volume is the Arms of the Hendersons of Sedgwick Park (whose pedigree is contained in this book); of Fordell, co. Fife (created baronets, 1664); and, with slight variations, of Randalls Park, Surrey. Coats of Arms very similar to it are used by the Hendersons of Chesters, co. Haddington, and many others. Numerous branches of the Henderson family have Coats of Arms resembling it.

This is the most widely used of all Henderson Coats of Arms and has been in existence for many centuries. It is described in BURKE'S GENERAL ARMORY, BURKE'S LANDED GENTRY, BURKE'S PEERAGE AND BARONETAGE and other reliable works on heraldry, in some cases accompanied by illustrations and pedigrees. "The Henderson Genealogy" by Clemens shows this insignia, and Crozier records it for Lieutenant James Henderson, who settled in this country in 1704. It has been used for generations by his descendants and by many other American branches of the Henderson family.

	HERALDIC LANGUAGE	ENGLISH DESCRIPTION
Arms .....	Gules, three piles issuing out of the sinister side argent, on a chief of the last, a crescent azure between two ermine spots sable.	A red shield bearing, at the top, a silver band on which is a blue crescent between two black ermine spots, and, below the band, three silver triangles.
Crest .....	A cubit arm proper, the hand grasping an estoile or ensigned with a crescent azure.	A forearm in natural colors, the hand grasping a star-shaped object of gold upon which is a blue crescent.
Motto .....	Sola virtus nobilitat (Latin).	Virtue alone is nobility.

Sir Bernard Burke, of Heralds College, London, said: "Heraldry is prized by all who can show honorable ancestry or wish to found honorable families."

Besides its family significance this Coat of Arms makes an excellent mural decoration and inspires the admiration and comment of all who see it.

It is quite appropriate that members of the Henderson family who have a pride in their ancestry should display the family Coat of Arms, in proper colors.

(C) ANCIENT HENDERSON FAMILIES

(D) PROMINENT BRITISH HENDERSONS, PAST GENERATIONS

ALEXANDER HENDERSON: M.A. (1583 (?) - 1646); Scottish Presbyterian divine and diplomatist; was commissioned both by Scottish assembly and English parliamentary committee as a manager of a proposed religious settlement to the Uxbridge conference. There are six original portraits of him in Scotland, the finest being at Duff House, Banffshire.

ALEXANDER: (1780-1863); physician; educated at Edinburgh Univ.; admitted a licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians, 1808; contributed to "Encyclopedia Britannica" and other publications.

ANDREW: M.A. (fl. 1734-1775); miscellaneous writer and bookseller; ancestors lived at Roxburghshire for 500 years before his birth; private tutor in families of Countess of Stair and others; came to London and printed anonymous translation of Voltaire's "History of Charles 12th of Sweden," 1734; was in Scotland at time of the rebellion and subsequently published at Edinburgh "The History of the Rebellion, 1745 and 1746, by an impartial hand who was an eye witness to most of the facts," 1748.

ANDREW: (1783-1835); portrait painter; one of original members of Society of Dilettanti, founded in Glasgow, 1825; practiced at Glasgow as a portrait painter; exhibited at the Royal Scottish Academy in Edinburgh for three years. A portrait of him by his own hand was exhibited by Dr. William Young, M.D., in Glasgow Exhibition of the Works of British Artists, 1835.

CHARLES COOPER: (1803-1877); painter and etcher; a very prolific artist, skilled in drawing the horse and produced many subjects illustrative of coaching and scenes on the road. These were engraved and published by Messrs. Fores of Piccadilly. Col. Kenneth Henderson, C.B., was one of his six sons.

EBENEZER: the elder (1784-1858); Icelandic Missionary; in 1806 was minister at Elisnore and taught English language to young people; by 1807 had learned to preach in Danish; translated into that language the "Memoir of Catharine Haldane," which became very popular; master of seven foreign languages.

EBENEZER: LL.D. (the younger); (1809-1879); author of "The Annals of Dunfermline"; nephew of Ebenezer the elder; in 1856 secured the recognition of Dunfermline as a city, whereupon the freedom of Elgin and Dunfermline was conferred upon him; mem. of five Scottish scientific societies; wrote papers for these and English societies; in 1850 European experts highly commended him for an ingenious combination of wheels designed to show and check sidereal time.

GEORGE: (1783-1855); Lieut.-Col. royal engineers; distinguished himself at siege of St. Sebastian; was mentioned in dispatches and received the gold medal; took part in battles of Nive, Nivelles and Orthes, receiving the war medal with two clasps; in 1830 formed the London and Southwestern Railway Company, later being general supt. and afterward director.

HON. JAMES: F.R.S. (1783 (?) - 1848); writer on Brazil; commissioner and consul-general for Colombia and resided at Bogota; author of several books, including "The State and Prospects of Spain"; early in life was a native of Cumberland but sailed from England, 1819.

JOHN: (1747-1785); actor; known as "Bath Roscius"; his family was originally Scottish and he claimed descent from Hendersons of Fordel with which Alexander was connected. In 1772, at Bath, he made—as Hamlet, and under name of Courtney—his first stage appearance. At Covent Garden he was the original Duke of Milan, remaining there till the close of his career.

JOHN: B.A. (1757-1788); an eccentric student; at age of eight years was able to teach Latin; when twelve years old taught both Greek and Latin at Treveed College, then governed by John William Detcher. When Hannah More explored Pembroke College with Dr. Johnson in 1782 he was one of the party.

JOHN: (1804-1862); architect. In 1814 his father went in business as a nurseryman at Den, Brechin (the firm, John Henderson & Sons, still exists). John became assistant in office of Thomas Hamilton, the architect, and afterwards practiced in Edinburgh on his own account; made special study of Gothic architecture; designed a bridge across the Den, Brechin, 1856. Among his ecclesiastical works was the spire of the old abbey or parish church, Arbroath, 1831.

JOHN: (1780-1867); philanthropist; an East India merchant in London; for twenty years contributed to religious and charitable schemes about £40,000 per annum. On one occasion spent £4000 in sending a copy of a publication to all the railway servants in the kingdom in the hope of convincing them of the sinfulness of Sabbath labour; purchased stock of Edinburgh and Glasgow railway and divided it among friends whom he knew would oppose running of Sunday trains. Sunday railway traveling was interrupted until amalgamation of that company with the North British Company; chairman of the Royal Exchange in Glasgow.

JOHN: B.A., M.A. (1797-1878); collector of works of art and archaeologist; an excellent artist; fellow of the Society of Antiquaries and other archaeological societies; a frequent attendant at their meetings and contributor to their "Proceedings."

THOMAS: (1798-1844); astronomer; from 1819-1831 was secretary to Earl of Landerdale and Lord Jeffrey; a fellow of Royal Astronomical Society, 1832, and later those of Edinburgh and London; first astronomer-royal for Scotland in 1834.

WILLIAM: M.D. (1810-1872); homeopathist; fellow of Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh, 1838; member Medico-Chirurgical Society; appointed to chair of general pathology in University of Edinburgh. His wit and accomplishments made him a delightful companion. An author, one of his editions being "A Dictionary and Concordance of the Names of Persons and Places—Old and New Testaments," Edinburgh, 1869.

(I) PROMINENT HENDERSONS OF AMERICA, PAST GENERATIONS

ARCHIBALD HENDERSON: Soldier; b., Virginia, 1785. During the Florida war he commanded a battery of Marines; was engaged in a skirmish on Hatcheluskee in 1837, and was breveted brigadier-general for gallant and meritorious service while commanding marines in Fla., Ala. and Tenn. against the hostile Indians.

JACOB: Clergyman; b., Ireland, about 1681. In 1716 he was appointed Commissary of the church of England, on the western shore of Maryland. He visited England in 1737; was elected first colonial member of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and obtained liberal donations in its interests.

JAMES ALEXANDER: Lawyer; b. in Stoke, Devonshire, Eng., 1821; came to Canada, 1835; was admitted to the Bar of Ontario, 1843, and practiced there. He was appointed Chancellor of the diocese of Ontario in 1862, and a member of Trinity College, Toronto, which in 1863 conferred upon him the degree of D.C.L.

JOHN: Senator; b. in a Northern State in 1795; moved to Mississippi and practiced law in Woodville about 1820; was elected to the U. S. Senate in 1849. Later when he became involved with Gen. John A. Quitman in schemes regarding the conquest of Cuba and Mexico, both men were arrested and tried before the U. S. district court at New Orleans for violating the Neutrality laws of 1818 by complicity with the Lopez expedition against Cuba. Mr. Henderson was acquitted and later retired from public life.

JOHN BROOKS: Senator; b. near Danville, Ia., 1826; moved to Missouri, 1836. In 1856 was elected to the Legislature, originating the state railroad and banking laws of 1857. During his term in the U. S. Senate he was one of the seven Republican Senators whose votes defeated the impeachment of Andrew Jackson.

MARY FOOTE: (w. of John Brooks); author; b., New York about 1835; dau. Judge Elisha Foote; married in Washington and moved with her husband to St. Louis, Mo. She took a wide interest in woman's suffrage; served as president of the State Suffrage Assn., 1876; organized the St. Louis School of Design (Industrial Arts-School), 1876, and the Woman's Exchange, 1879.

MATTHEW: Missionary; b., Fifeshire, Scotland, 1736; educated at Glasgow Univ.; studied theology under Rev. Alexander Moncrieff, and was ordained in 1758. He was the only clergyman of his denomination (Associate Reformed) in Washington Co., Pa., where he lived in a rude cabin, preaching in a tent in winter and in open fields in summer, and meeting with great success.

PETER: Seedman; b., Pathhead, Scotland, 1823; was educated there and studied botany while apprenticed to a gardener. He came to the U. S., engaging in greenhouse horticulture in Jersey City and in seed-production in N. Y. Both businesses grew to be the largest of their kind in America. Mr. Henderson was the author of many books, including "Gardening for Profit" and "Gardening for Pleasure."

COL. RICHARD: Pioneer; b. in Hanover Co., Virginia, 1743; d. in Hillsborough, N. C., 1785; was of a poor family and grew to manhood before he learned to read or write; while yet a young man was appointed constable and undersheriff; removed to North Carolina, 1762, was admitted to the bar, and in 1769 was appointed associate judge of the superior court. When independence was declared, in 1775, he was re-elected judge, but declined to accept, as he was already bound up in the fortunes of the "Transylvania Land Company"—up to that time "Henderson & Company," for whom Daniel Boone and his scouts had for some time been secretly exploring "the back of beyond" that was later Kentucky. In 1775 Col. Henderson succeeded in negotiating with the chiefs of the Cherokee nation the "Treaty of Watoga," by which for 10,000 pounds sterling in money and goods the Transylvania Land Company became proprietors of an extent of territory comprising more than half of the present state of Kentucky. A government was at once organized, of which Henderson was made President, and the new country was named Transylvania. The first legislature held its session under a large elm tree near the walls of a fort, and there was formed a constitution conspicuous for its statute of religious liberty, and in general for the bold enunciation of democratic principles. Henderson's purchase from the Indians was subsequently annulled by the state of Virginia, as an infringement of its chartered rights, but the great work of settling the wilderness was already well begun. Col. Henderson has been described as "the political father of Kentucky" and "the most brilliant and eccentric genius in America—if not in the world."

PLEASANT: (bro. of Richard); soldier; b., Hanover Co., Va., 1756; studied law with his brother; entered the Revolutionary Army in 1775, and at close of the war was major of Col. Malmedy's Mounted Corps. He held office as clerk of the House of Commons of N. C. continuously for forty years, but in 1831 moved to Tennessee.

ARCHIBALD: (son of Richard); lawyer; b., Granville Co., N. C., 1768; was Federalist member of Congress, 1799-1803; but supported Thomas Jefferson for the presidency, 1800; served in N. C. House of Commons, 1807-20. He was the acknowledged head of the bar in Northwestern N. C., and distinguished throughout the state as an advocate.

LEONARD: (bro. of Archibald); jurist; b., Granville Co., N. C., 1772; became judge of appellate court in 1808; of supreme bench, 1818, and was chief justice, 1829. His law school, which he conducted throughout his judicial career, was most popular in the state.

JAMES PINCKNEY: (nephew of Leonard); statesman; b., Lincoln Co., N. C., 1808; m. to Mississippi, 1835. While secretary of state, 1837-39, he visited England and France to procure recognition of Texan independence. At San Antonio, Tex., he was special minister to U. S. in 1844; and was elected governor, 1846. On a call for volunteers he took command of the Texas corps, was distinguished at Monterey, and received the thanks of Congress and a sword for bravery in action. He was appointed to U. S. Senate (to fill the unexpired term of his partner, Thomas J. Rusk), but died before the conclusion of the session.

ROBERT MILLER: Lawyer; b. near Carlisle, Pa., 1827; served in Legislature, 1851-53. At the beginning of the Civil War he entered the Union Army as Captain in the 36th Penn. Reserves; and in 1865 was breveted Colonel and Brigadier-General of Volunteers. He was appointed Law Judge of the 12th judicial district of Penn. in 1872, and was its president judge in 1882. Later he resigned and returned to practice.

THOMAS: Physician; b., Freehold, N. J., 1743; grad., Princeton, 1761; became mem. N. J. Medical Society, 1766. As brigadier-major in the battle of Monmouth, he was the "solitary horseman" that rode up to Gen. Washington while he was standing beside his horse at Freehold Court-House, and informed him of the retreat of Gen. Charles Lee. He was elected to Congress, and served during Washington's administration; was successively Surrogate, mem. Legislature, Judge of Common Pleas and Commissioner to settle boundaries between Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

THOMAS JEFFERSON: Congressman; b., Brownsville, Tenn., 1824; breveted brigadier-general of volunteers for service rendered during the rebellion, 1865; collector of internal revenue for 5th district of Ill., 1871; elected to Congress, 1874, and later served by successive re-elections.

(K) HENDERSON TOWNS, ETC.

There are in the United States towns as follows:

HENDERSON: Ark., Colo., Ill., Iowa, Ky., La., Md., Mich., Minn., Mont., Nebr., N. Y., N. C., Tenn., Tex., W. Va.; HENDERSON HARBOR: N. Y.; HENDERSONVILLE: N. C., Pa., Tenn. There are also in the United States numerous counties, townships, streets, avenues, etc., bearing the name "Henderson." This is eloquent testimony to the high esteem in which the name is held in this country.

(L) HENDERSON CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES

The compiler of these records has made up a list from city and telephone directories of the United States, and from other sources, as follows. Care was taken to eliminate, wherever possible, persons known or believed to be colored, or of nationalities other than British and American:

Alabama .....	125	Maine .....	58	Oklahoma .....	113
Arizona .....	36	Maryland .....	57	Oregon .....	31
Arkansas .....	54	Massachusetts .....	350	Pennsylvania .....	471
California .....	648	Michigan .....	273	Rhode Island .....	38
Colorado .....	183	Minnesota .....	81	South Carolina .....	17
Connecticut .....	68	Mississippi .....	29	South Dakota .....	6
District of Columbia	102	Missouri .....	143	Tennessee .....	237
Delaware .....	12	Montana .....	35	Texas .....	563
Florida .....	171	Nebraska .....	84	Utah .....	64
Georgia .....	165	Nevada .....	9	Vermont .....	17
Idaho .....	17	New Hampshire .....	37	Virginia .....	107
Illinois .....	467	New Jersey .....	262	Washington .....	124
Indiana .....	252	New Mexico .....	4	West Virginia .....	89
Iowa .....	169	New York .....	610	Wisconsin .....	52
Kansas .....	141	North Carolina .....	70	Wyoming .....	9
Kentucky .....	66	North Dakota .....	14
Louisiana .....	39	Ohio .....	424	Total .....	7182

To secure an estimate of the "Henderson population" of the United States, we figure as follows:

	(a) multiply by
Only about half the names were taken from each directory consulted .....	2
Half of the Hendersons reside in the rural districts or in small towns having no printed directories which were available to us.....	2
There is an average of more than four persons in each American family.....	4

Since Henderson daughters marry and have as many descendants as the Henderson sons, there are as many descendants of "other names" as there are bearing the name Henderson (though it is much easier to locate the latter) .....	2

By multiplying each figure of column (a) into the preceding figure, we have a total of.....	32
Conservative estimate of the Henderson population of the United States, one-half of whom bear the name Henderson and one-half of whom bear other names.....	229,834
The estimated Henderson population of any of the states may be obtained by multiplying the figures shown by 32. There are Hendersons in every state of the Union. The Henderson population of the British Empire is probably equal to that in the United States.

(M) RELIGIONS OF THE HENDERSONS

For several centuries the Hendersons lived in England and Scotland. Most of the English and Scotch, and, likewise, the Hendersons were and are of the Protestant faith.

There are a few Hendersons of the Catholic faith in the British Isles, but it is estimated that their number does not exceed three per cent. of the entire Henderson population.

The Hendersons who came from the British Isles to America continued in the faith of their fathers, for the most part, though their descendants in this country today will be found in the memberships of practically all the various churches. It is estimated that of all the Hendersons in America who are church members, at least ninety-five per cent. are of the Protestant faith.

Biographical sketches of 34 Hendersons appear in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. Their religious faiths are shown as follows: BAPTIST, 3; EPISCOPAL, 3; METHODIST, 1; METHODIST EPISCOPAL, 1; PRESBYTERIAN, 4; UNITARIAN, 1; OTHER PROTESTANTS, 1; RELIGION NOT STATED, 20.
